

To Whom It May Concern:

SANYANG
LOWER BASIC SCHOOL

I am writing to confirm that Ms. Coleen O'Brien, also known as Zawadi, came to The Gambia as a philanthropist three years ago with the vision to support communities and schools in need. During her efforts to achieve this goal, she visited Sanyang Lower Basic School to discuss and present her ideas. Her proposals were warmly welcomed by the Senior Management Committee (SMC) and the entire school administration.

Zawadi revitalized the school garden using modern systems and techniques, showcasing innovative ideas and materials that significantly enhanced productivity. The benefits of her contributions to the school garden are substantial. Not only does it provide food for the children, but it also offers teachers and students the opportunity to conduct science lessons in the garden. This hands-on experience has greatly enriched the students' education, particularly in understanding vegetable plants and flowers, which are used to beautify the school environment.

Zawadi is a philanthropist worth emulating. She is open and engaging with both the community and the students. Her interactions with the villagers and the cooperation she fostered within the school are commendable, earning her the admiration of both teachers and students. She has been a mother figure to the students and a mentor to the teachers, handling her responsibilities with utmost dedication.

Zawadi is good-natured and always ready to assist others whenever needed. We are confident that she will be a valuable addition to any organization or future employer.

We deeply appreciate Zawadi's contributions to our school. We highly recommend Zawadi and wish her all the best in her future endeavors. We welcome her return at any time.

Sincerely,
Sanyang Lower Basic School
